TABLES TURNED.

Beer Bottle Proves Bar to Execution of Threat.

"You come out o' there, nigger, and I'll beat the h— out o' you," was the substance of a remark made by Georgia Stone to Lillie Starr, two colored women of Burnett street.

And O, horrors! the irony of fate! The Starr woman did come out and proceeded to do to the Stone woman just the thing she had been threatened with.

Concealed under her apron was a beer bottle with which, when she drew close to the Stone woman, she struck the latter full in the face. The bottle broke cutting the Stone woman's face severely. Not content with that amount of injury, Lillie Starr discarded her weapon and wallowed her opponent in the dust.

All this occurred on the peaceful Sabbath, and the Stone woman, who made the first remark, doubtless thinks with Burns that "The best laid schemes of mice and men, gang oft aglee."

The action was interspersed with illuminative and choice expletives.

THE LID

Will Be Put on Wallace Park by Magistrate Charles Emery.

Justice Charles Emery has issued a warrant, using Deputy Sheriff T. J. Moore as a witness, against the Wallace park management for violating the Sabbath by operating different pleasure contrivances for profit. It is understood that there are seven different concessions which draw revenue, being operated on Sunday, and the magistrate issued the single warrant for the entire lot.

"I did not try the case today, but will probably have it settled before night," Justice Emery stated. "I intend next week, if the practice of operating these machines is not ceased, to issue separate and distinct warrants. County Attorney Alben Barkley says they must cease, and I will act in accordance with his views in the matter."

ROOSEVELT LIVE HIGH? NEVER

Bowl of Milk and Hunk of Bread Often White House Lunch Menu.

Washington June 26.—President Roosevelt wants everybody in the United States to understand that the food a white house is plain but wholesome, nothing more. He read in a Washington paper today a story about the elaborate menus declared to be in order three times a day at the white house. Straightway he sent for a reporter of this paper and made a strong denial that he and his family had anything to eat so much better than the average American family.

"Why, for lunch," he declared, "I sometimes have only a bowl of milk and a hunk of bread and the children get cold roast beef."

TIPS.

A GREAT MANY people appreciate the value of these little ads, but there are a host of people who don't. Just as an illustration of the good work they do:

A reader of The Sun lost his shetland pony last week—rather it strayed away—and after searching all the adjoining and neighboring commons for it an ad was put in Tips Saturday. Monday morning, about 7:30, a resident on one of the rural routes, five miles from the city, 'phoned in that he had the pony.

"That's certainly quick work," said the advertiser, when he called to pay for the ad and have it "killed," and I had no idea The Sun was so widely circulated."

Tips ads are usually effective. Try them.
